PRINCE ALBERT, OCT. 13, 1893.

Fifteen years ago the Reform Government, under the late Hon. Alexander McKenzie, was defeated, and the Conservatives under the late Sir John A. Macdonald came into power. During the fifteen years just past Canada, under the National Policy, inaugurated and maintained by the Conservatives has prospered; commerce has increased; large manufacturing have been built up and the various industries of the country have been developed and extended, so that the Dominion of Canada, as a whole, is in a healthy and prosperous condition as regards her trade and industries. The National Policy which has been the policy of the present Government for the past fifteen years has done much good for the country; however, it cannot be denied that the tariff can be improved, and at the next session of Parliament will be modified, so that the duty upon such articles as bear heavily upon certain classes will be adjusted. For this purpose several members of the Government are visiting various parts of the country to discuss Tariff Reform.

The Hon. Messrs. Foster and Anger are now in Manitoba holding a series of meetings, after which they will proceed to the Territories and British Columbia. They will be in Prince Albert about the 20th inst., when all parties will have an opportunity of bringing before them such grievances as they may have with the present tariff. While the Government intend to stick to the old policy, it is their desire to make such change in the tariff that no class shall bear an undue share of the public burden. The people will now have an opportunity to express their views on the "tariff" and advocate such changes as will conduce to the upbuilding and prosperity of this part of Canada.

The Liquor Commissioner's visit to this place over a year ago now in Ontario. It is a very nice recreation for those connected with it, especially as the remuneration is good. There is little benefit accruing from the commission over than a good round bill for the people of Canada to pay. This is what Sir John Thompson said about the commission in his speech at Durham, Ont.: "The commission is not issued for the purpose of ascertaining the sentiment of the country on prohibition, that sentiment is expressed by members of parliament by the press, the pulpit and by the temperance organizations; that sentiment is expressed in the case of every man in the country who has ears to hear and eyes to read, and I think we would have done wrong if we had issued a commission to go out before the country and ascertain what the opinions of the public were on a great question like that. Therefore, the opinion of the commission on this point would not be very material or unless under such circumstances as would compel them to report that the public sentiment of the country would not carry out a prohibitory law or some other particular of that kind, which it is impossible for me to foresee. The object of the commission was to get information for the country from the people as to what was going on in this country in regard to the liquor traffic, what has been the result of experiment in favor of suppressing it in other countries, and to distribute that information among the people of the country."

In a letter to the Free Press advocating a renewal of efforts to settle the vacant lands of the Red River Valley in Manitoba, Edouard Richard, at one time sheriff of the North-West, besides making many valuable suggestions has the following very sensible remark: "I know that some may raise the objection that, in speaking of our locality others should not be mentioned in a way to show a prior advantage over them. This objection should have no weight, if my statements are true, or if we believe them to be so. In the end truth will do the most good to all. It stands to reason that a country 1,000 miles long by 500 broad cannot be all the same. What those differences are should be ascertained and told for the general interest. If the immigrant public had been told that the country in the Estevan district, near the boundary, was inferior to the Dauphin, the Carleton place, the Edouard, the Battle river, there would not have been the disappointment that we see to day in that section. If the Germans, who settled in the neighborhood of Medicine Hat, had been told these differences, they would not have had to leave the country or pull up stakes to go toward Edmonton after a useless battle and expense against nature. Not only is it right to let these differences be known, but at the same time it is proper and a duty to direct the farming operations in the right direction."—Edmonton Bulletin.

An agitation is on foot at Ottawa by the friends of Lieutenant Governor Royal to have him appointed a Senator for the North-West to represent the French speaking population of the Territories. If the Government has power to increase the North-West representation in the Senate without new legislation, the appointment would not meet with general favor throughout the Territories. The regime of Mr. Royal as Lieutenant Governor has been marked by his determination to rule independent of his territorial advisers, in fact his administration has been marked by what might be termed the "One Man Power."

One of the most terrible storms that has ever visited the United States took place last week in the State of Louisiana by which over 1200 persons are said to have lost their lives. The country was devastated for miles, and the wind tore down everything before it. Dead bodies lie in heaps along the pathway of this mighty tornado. Many who did escape from the terrible elements may perish from starvation and thirst. This is only one of the many destructive storms that take place every year in the States.

At the bye-elections for the House of Commons to elect a representative for Carleton, B.C., there were three candidates, all supporters of the present Government. Adams was elected by a majority of sixteen votes.

THE SUPREME COURT.

A sitting of the Supreme Court was held at the Court House on Monday and Tuesday last, His Honor Mr. Justice McCreagh presiding. The first cases called were:

Creagh vs. Lepine; Creagh vs. Tait; Creagh vs. Regnier. Actions taken on promissory notes. Life Insurance. Judgments for Defendants, with costs in each case. McKay for Plaintiff; Gunn for Defendants. These notes were given as first payment on application for Life Insurance. Defendants never got examined by the Doctor and the Judge held that as the application was never completed the insurer took no risk and there was no consideration given for the notes issued, consequently the plaintiff, who was agent for the Federal Life Insurance Co., could not recover.

CRIMINAL COURT.

Queen vs. G. W. Garrison—Charged with concealing a horse with a fraudulent purpose. Prisoner found guilty and sentenced to two months imprisonment in Police Barracks. McKay for Crown; Gunn for prisoner.

Queen vs. F. and—Similar charge to the above. In this case the Crown withdrew the charge as the evidence in the former case showed that the prisoner was not guilty. McKay for Crown; Gunn for prisoner.

The next sitting of the Court will be on the 22nd Nov.

Many farmers in the neighborhood of our town complain of the way in which sportsmen from the town conduct themselves while duck hunting through the country. They pull down fences and drive through fields where grain is stacked, without taking the trouble to put the fence back in position, thus leaving the grain open to the numerous bands of cattle running through the country. This conduct, without a doubt, is contemptible, and leaves the parties doing so open to a suit for damages, which some of them complain threaten to enter if the practice is not stopped at once.

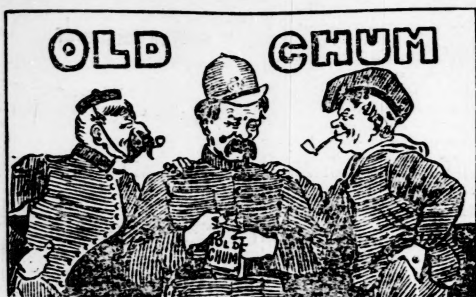

Buy your Caps, Mitts, Gloves and Measurers at F. C. Baker's.

Pure Gold Goods are guaranteed in every respect.

Messrs. T. O. Davis, T. J. Agnew, R. Buckley and Com. Baker returned from their outing in the Kesteven district on Monday. They went out principally to attend the exhibition of the Carrot River district Agricultural Society, and were delighted with what they saw. Many of the exhibits, they say, would have done credit and secured prizes at provincial fairs in the east. A full list of prize winners will be published in a few days. These gentlemen were also much pleased with the general and general hospitality extended to them by all whom they came in contact with. The party spent a few days looking over the country and were well pleased with what they saw of this magnificent district. Some good shooting was also had on the trip, game being abundant.

On your way from the post office call at McLeay's for anything in his line.

THE CANADIAN MAGAZINE FOR OCTOBER

shows the steady improvement of this interesting magazine. The illustrations are numerous and excellent; the articles are timely, ray, and as entertaining as those of any magazine on this continent, and the fiction is bright. Wm. O'Brien, F.R.G.S., continues his interesting story of the remarkable journey down the Yukon, and furnishes many views of the scenery on that Great River of the north. Attorney General Longley furnishes a well-written illustrated article on Fruit-Growing in the Annapolis Valley, and Henry J. Woodside, an excellent article, well illustrated, "With a Fishing Tag on Lake Superior." Dr. John Ferguson, of Toronto, writing on "Consumption," says much that will be pleasant and useful reading to people with a tendency to that disease. Prof. Russell Q. C., writes entertainingly of olden times and laws in Nova Scotia, in his article, "An O. D. Provincial Statue Book." Other conditions are: "Origin of the Social Crisis in the United States," by Viscount de Frossier; "Technical Education for Women," by Helen Cameron Parker; "The Influence of the French School on Recent Art," by W. A. Sherwood; "O'Hagan's Poems," by Emily McManus; "Morning Home," by Bernard McEvoy; "Emerson's Choice of Books—eminent men," by Jean McFarlane; "A Canadian Ghost Story," by Rev. Herbert H. Gower; "An Old Flower," by Charles Gordon Rogers, and a number of poems of considerable merit. The magazine is a to the country and should be warmly supported. Published by The Ontario Publishing Co., Ltd., Toronto. $2.50 per annum.
